POLITICAL SCIENCE

Department of Political Science

Graduate Program Director: Dwight Allman

Baylor’s Political Science Department is renowned for its high quality teaching and for professors who care about students. Our students have gone on to become lawyers, journalists, politicians, lobbyists, diplomats, political analysts and teachers.

The Department of Political Science offers graduate work leading to the Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy degrees in political science, as well as the following M.A. degrees:

- Master of Arts in International Relations
- Master of Public Policy and Administration
- Master of Public Policy and Administration and Juris Doctor, offered jointly with the Baylor University School of Law

Admission

For admission to the department’s graduate programs, an applicant must present:

1. a bachelor’s degree from an accredited college or university either in political science or a field relevant to applicant’s program of study
2. an overall GPA and a Graduate Record Examination General Test (GRE) score predictive of success in the program
3. three letters of recommendation
4. a “statement of purpose,” identifying areas of primary interest, describing intellectual background and ambitions, and explaining how the degree sought facilitates applicant’s academic and professional goals (1-2 pages)
5. a brief writing sample (e.g., an undergraduate paper of 10-12 pages)
6. expressed areas of academic/research interests compatible with those of the faculty
7. applicants whose native language is not English and whose undergraduate degree is from an institution outside the United States must also submit results from either the TOEFL, IELTS, or Duolingo exam. (For further details, see the section on Admissions at the front of this catalog.)

Decisions about admissions and financial aid will, in each case, be based on evaluation of these materials as a whole.
