CURRICULUM ORGANIZATION

Curriculum Changes
Any faculty member can propose a new degree, major, minor, concentration, or new course (or changes to existing courses). The first step is a discussion between the faculty member and the appropriate department chair. The most successful proposals have strong support at the department and dean’s office levels. Establishing support across disciplinary and school/college boundaries is beneficial. Departments should follow the curriculum guidelines, as indicated on the Provost’s website (www.baylor.edu/provost (http://www.baylor.edu/provost/)), for submitting requested curriculum changes.

Any new degree or major requires approval by the Graduate Curriculum Committee, Graduate Dean, Graduate Council, Council of Deans (PhD), Vice Provost for Academic Affairs and Policy (Vice Provost for Institutional Research & Professional Education for GPE programs), President, and Board of Regents (to be included on the agenda, requests for new degrees must be submitted at least 6-8 weeks in advance of Board meetings).

Any new minor, specialization, or concentration requires approval by the Graduate Curriculum Committee, Graduate Dean, and Vice Provost for Academic Affairs and Policy (Vice Provost for Institutional Research & Professional Education for GPE programs).

Changes to degree requirements for an existing program must be approved by one of the Graduate Curriculum Committees. Contact the chair of the appropriate committee for information about the process and requirements.

To make determinations on how much academic credit should be offered for new courses (or changes to existing courses), the individual faculty members and curriculum committees consider the following factors:

1. the subject matter covered in the course,
2. the number (and nature) of required assignments,
3. the number of contact hours each week,
4. the amount and level of work required, and
5. the structure/content of similar courses currently being offered within the department and throughout the university.

Once approved, changes are entered into the university’s academic records system and can be offered during the next most appropriate term. New courses (or changes to existing courses) are submitted through BearQuest and reviewed under similar guidelines.

Catalog Updates
The Graduate School Catalog is updated annually by the Graduate School - Office of the Dean. Any updates to the General, Curriculum, or Affiliated Programs sections of the catalog must be submitted in writing to graduate_catalog@baylor.edu following appropriate approvals. The Courses of Instruction section is updated annually via BearQuest.
