CLASSICS

The Classics department is engaged in teaching and research in areas ranging all the way from Homer, through the Classical texts of Greece and Rome, Early Christian texts, and Patristic texts, to the reception of classical authors in the medieval period. Our majors and minors emphasize mastery of Greek and Latin and vigorous discussion of the seminal and enduring ideas and questions.

GRK 3311 Greek Epigraphy (3)
Pre-requisite(s): GRK 2310 and 2320 or consent of instructor
Epigraphical documents generally comprise those texts incised in durable material—stone, bronze, lead, et cetera. This seminar examines both the contents of those epigraphical documents that survive from Antiquity and the contexts within which they were created. As such, it serves as a general introduction to epigraphical sources and methods, as well as to the ways in which epigraphical information can be used to study ancient society. By offering for study diverse epigraphical examples from various periods of Antiquity, the course will introduce basic bibliography, major collections of documents, research and field methodology (including the study of inscriptions in museums and archaeological sites in mainland Italy and Sicily), and the use of electronic resources available for epigraphical studies.

GRK 3351 The Epistles (3)
Pre-requisite(s): GRK 2310 and 2320 or consent of instructor
The letter-form, a genre common in Greek and Roman literature and the dominant structural form of the New Testament, as exemplified in the Pauline and General Epistles.
